- Using special fonts can cause an incorrect display.
- Transparent objects could appear differently then they were saved.
- Color gradients can cause problems.

Please notice! If a document is not displayed correctly we recommend:

- Save your office or image document as PDF to upload it to Spread.
- Use screen sharing to present your document.

There are various possibilities to combine video and audio codecs in a container format. For that reason problems may occur if a special combination or a special codec is used.

We recommend the following settings for the video encoding:

Video

Resolution	Recommended: original size or 800 x 600 px.
------------	---

Bit rate	No optimization is required.
----------	------------------------------

Frame rate	The frame rate should not be changed.
------------	---------------------------------------

Favored video codecs	H.264 and MPEG-4
----------------------	------------------

Audio

Favored audio codecs	MP3 and AAC
----------------------	-------------

Sampling rate	44 kHz
---------------	--------

Channels	2 (Stereo)
----------	------------

File format

Favored container	.flv, .mp4 and .mov
-------------------	---------------------

To encode your video you can use free or commercial software.

Warning! Every video encoding process incurs quality degradation. The best way to avoid this is to export your video from the original file according to our recommendations.

If this is not possible you should export an uncompressed video first. Afterwards encode this file using a separate encoding software.

Please note! It may take several minutes for the uploaded file to be available for presentation. As soon as the presentation is available, a hint appears in the meeting interface (screenshot on the right).

Afterwards you can select the file as your current presentation via the menu item "Select".
